In her private life, she is the proud mother of two charming daughters, Ann Kathleen, born September 6, 1953, and June Elizabeth, born November 21, 1955. June is married to architect John Lindsay, one of the most successful men in the field today. They live in a huge rambling, English-style home in Brentwood, where the girls have plenty of room to roam and which is a great relief to June, who spent the major portion of her adult life living in apartments.

No ethereal blonde is June. She's direct, charming, intelligent, possesses a rollicking sense of humor and loves to fly kites. She's also adept at swimming, water skiing and speedboating and plays tennis whenever she can. She's still in love with the theatre and whenever she returns to New York, she spends almost every spare moment seeing plays.
