

LOST IN SPACE

continue acting there and do occasional modeling. It wasn't until early 1957 that he decided to try again in Hollywood. This time, he brought with him another member of the family: Steve, a curly-haired blond, born in 1952. (The Williams' have since welcomed daughter Toni, born 1958).

His second visit to Hollywood led to his long career as the swashbuckling "Zorro" in television for Walt Disney.

Guy resides in a three-level Spanish-type "hacienda" close to Hollywood Boulevard. The 15-room home, built in movie town's "golden era," has been modernized throughout. A swimming pool adds the latter-day California touch.

Despite his protestations of being an indifferent school student, Guy is extremely well-read and can hold his own in any discussion on ancient history or theology.

Williams also is one of the country's better chess players, having competed in tournaments against several of America's top chessmen.

A better-than-average cook, Guy's specialty is an Italian dish named risotto a la milanaise, but he admits that Janice can prepare it better than anyone he knows.

Vital Statistics

Birthplace:	New York City	Weight:	190 pounds
Birthdate:	January 14	Eyes:	Hazel
Height:	6 feet, 3 inches	Hair:	Brown

Credits

TELEVISION:

"LOST IN SPACE"
"ZORRO"
"BONANZA"
"COCK"
"GUNSMOKE"
"SUSPENSE THEATRE"

FEATURES:

"THE SIGN OF ZORRO"
"CAPTAIN SINBAD"
"THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER" "ALFRED HITCH-"
"DAMON AND PYTHIAS"